

Training Examples

Recording a Decision:

- 1) The 'RED' wrestler is always on the left, 'BLUE' on the right.
- 2) Points are awarded as indicated by the referee and separated with a comma.
- 3) The loser's "TOTAL" box contains the total points scored in the period..
- 4) The winner's "TOTAL" box also contains the total period points.
- 5) Note that a Superiority in one period occurred. Because only one period had Superiority, the match is treated as a Decision. A Technical Fall requires 2 periods of Superiority.
- 6) Since the losing wrestler scored at least one technical point, he is awarded one classification point.
- 7) The winner is awarded 3 classification points for a Decision.
- 8) At the conclusion of the match, record the Wall Clock time in the designated box.
- 9) Be sure to 'X' out the loser and verify that the winner's signature matches the winning wrestler's name.

Recording a Tech Fall: (Superiority)

- 1) The loser's "TOTAL" boxes contain the total points scored in the period. In this case, 0 points.
- 2) The winner's "TOTAL" boxes also contain the total period points.
- 3) Note that superiority occurred in two periods.
 - a. Because two periods had superiority, the bout is treated as a Technical Fall.
 - b. In period one, the Red(Left) Wrestler achieved a six point differential. Signal for the referee to stop the period. Record the elapsed time.
 - c. In period two, Red had a 5 point throw. A 5 point throw (or two - 3 point moves) is automatically a superiority for that period. Signal for the Referee to stop the period. Record the time the move occurred.
- 4) Since the losing wrestler did not score any technical points, he is given "0" classification points.
- 5) The winner is awarded 4 classification points for Technical Superiority.
- 6) Record the Wall Clock time in the lower right hand box when the match concludes.
